HISTORY OF CARPENTER HOTEL

Carpenter Hotel is the site of the former Carpenters Local 1266 Union Hall, built in 1948, with the original building serving as the heart and entrance of the hotel.

The Union 1266 meeting hall has been reimagined as our Front Desk, coffee and cocktail bar, and restaurant. It's still a place for folks to meet up, share space, and connect with the community.

The open-air Quonset Hut, or Q-Hut, references the late '40s when the hall was built while offering a modern event space with ample fresh air.

The hotel itself boasts a newly built concrete frame with terracotta masonry from historic D'Hanis, Texas. Fresh air greets you at every turn, from the exterior breezeway and stairwell to each room's private terrace.

Q-HUT + DECK

Part covered pavilion, part open deck, the Quonset Hut offers 1,500 square feet of flexible outdoor and covered space. The space is ideal for corporate meetings, wedding ceremonies & receptions, or special events of any kind when you want to prioritize fresh air and squirrel sightings.

- Flexible layout options for seated ceremonies, seated dinners, and standing-room welcome receptions
- Built-in festoon lighting
- Natural wooden tables, retro metal chairs, and modern cocktail tables included
- Projector, screen, sound system, and wireless microphone available for rent
- Stay cool with built-in misting fans or keep warm with portable space heaters available for rent

CARPENTERS HALL

Carpenters Hall features a menu deeply inspired by the bounty of Texas. Executive Chef Thomas Malz leans into his Franco-American background and, along with his team of talented chefs, creates an array of dishes that celebrate Texas both old and new, wild and refined. Dishes call to the agricultural bounty of the region and techniques borrow from the state's greatest asset—its people. Along with thoughtfully curated wines from near and far, with a focus on natural and biodynamic producers, the Hall offers a convivial and unpretentious way to experience the best of what Texas has to offer.

Catering options highlight many beloved dishes from the menu, with options for breakfast, lunch, dinner, happy hours and bar services.

CARPENTERS HALL

Carpenters Hall is available for large party reservations, patio buyouts, cocktail hours, and full restaurant buyouts. Pricing varies depending on the season and number of guests. We would love to put together a custom quote for you.
