TODOS SANTOS

Evidence of life in Baja California Sur dates as far back as 11,000 B.C. For thousands of years, people have been fed by the bounty and soul-affirming magic that exists only in Todos Santos. Bountiful fishing has always been the mainstay of modern life here, along with a rich farmland that evolved from sugarcane crops in the 19th century to a diverse source of avocados, chilis, papayas, and much more. You can smell the basil in the fields as you drive to Baja Beans in Pescadero.

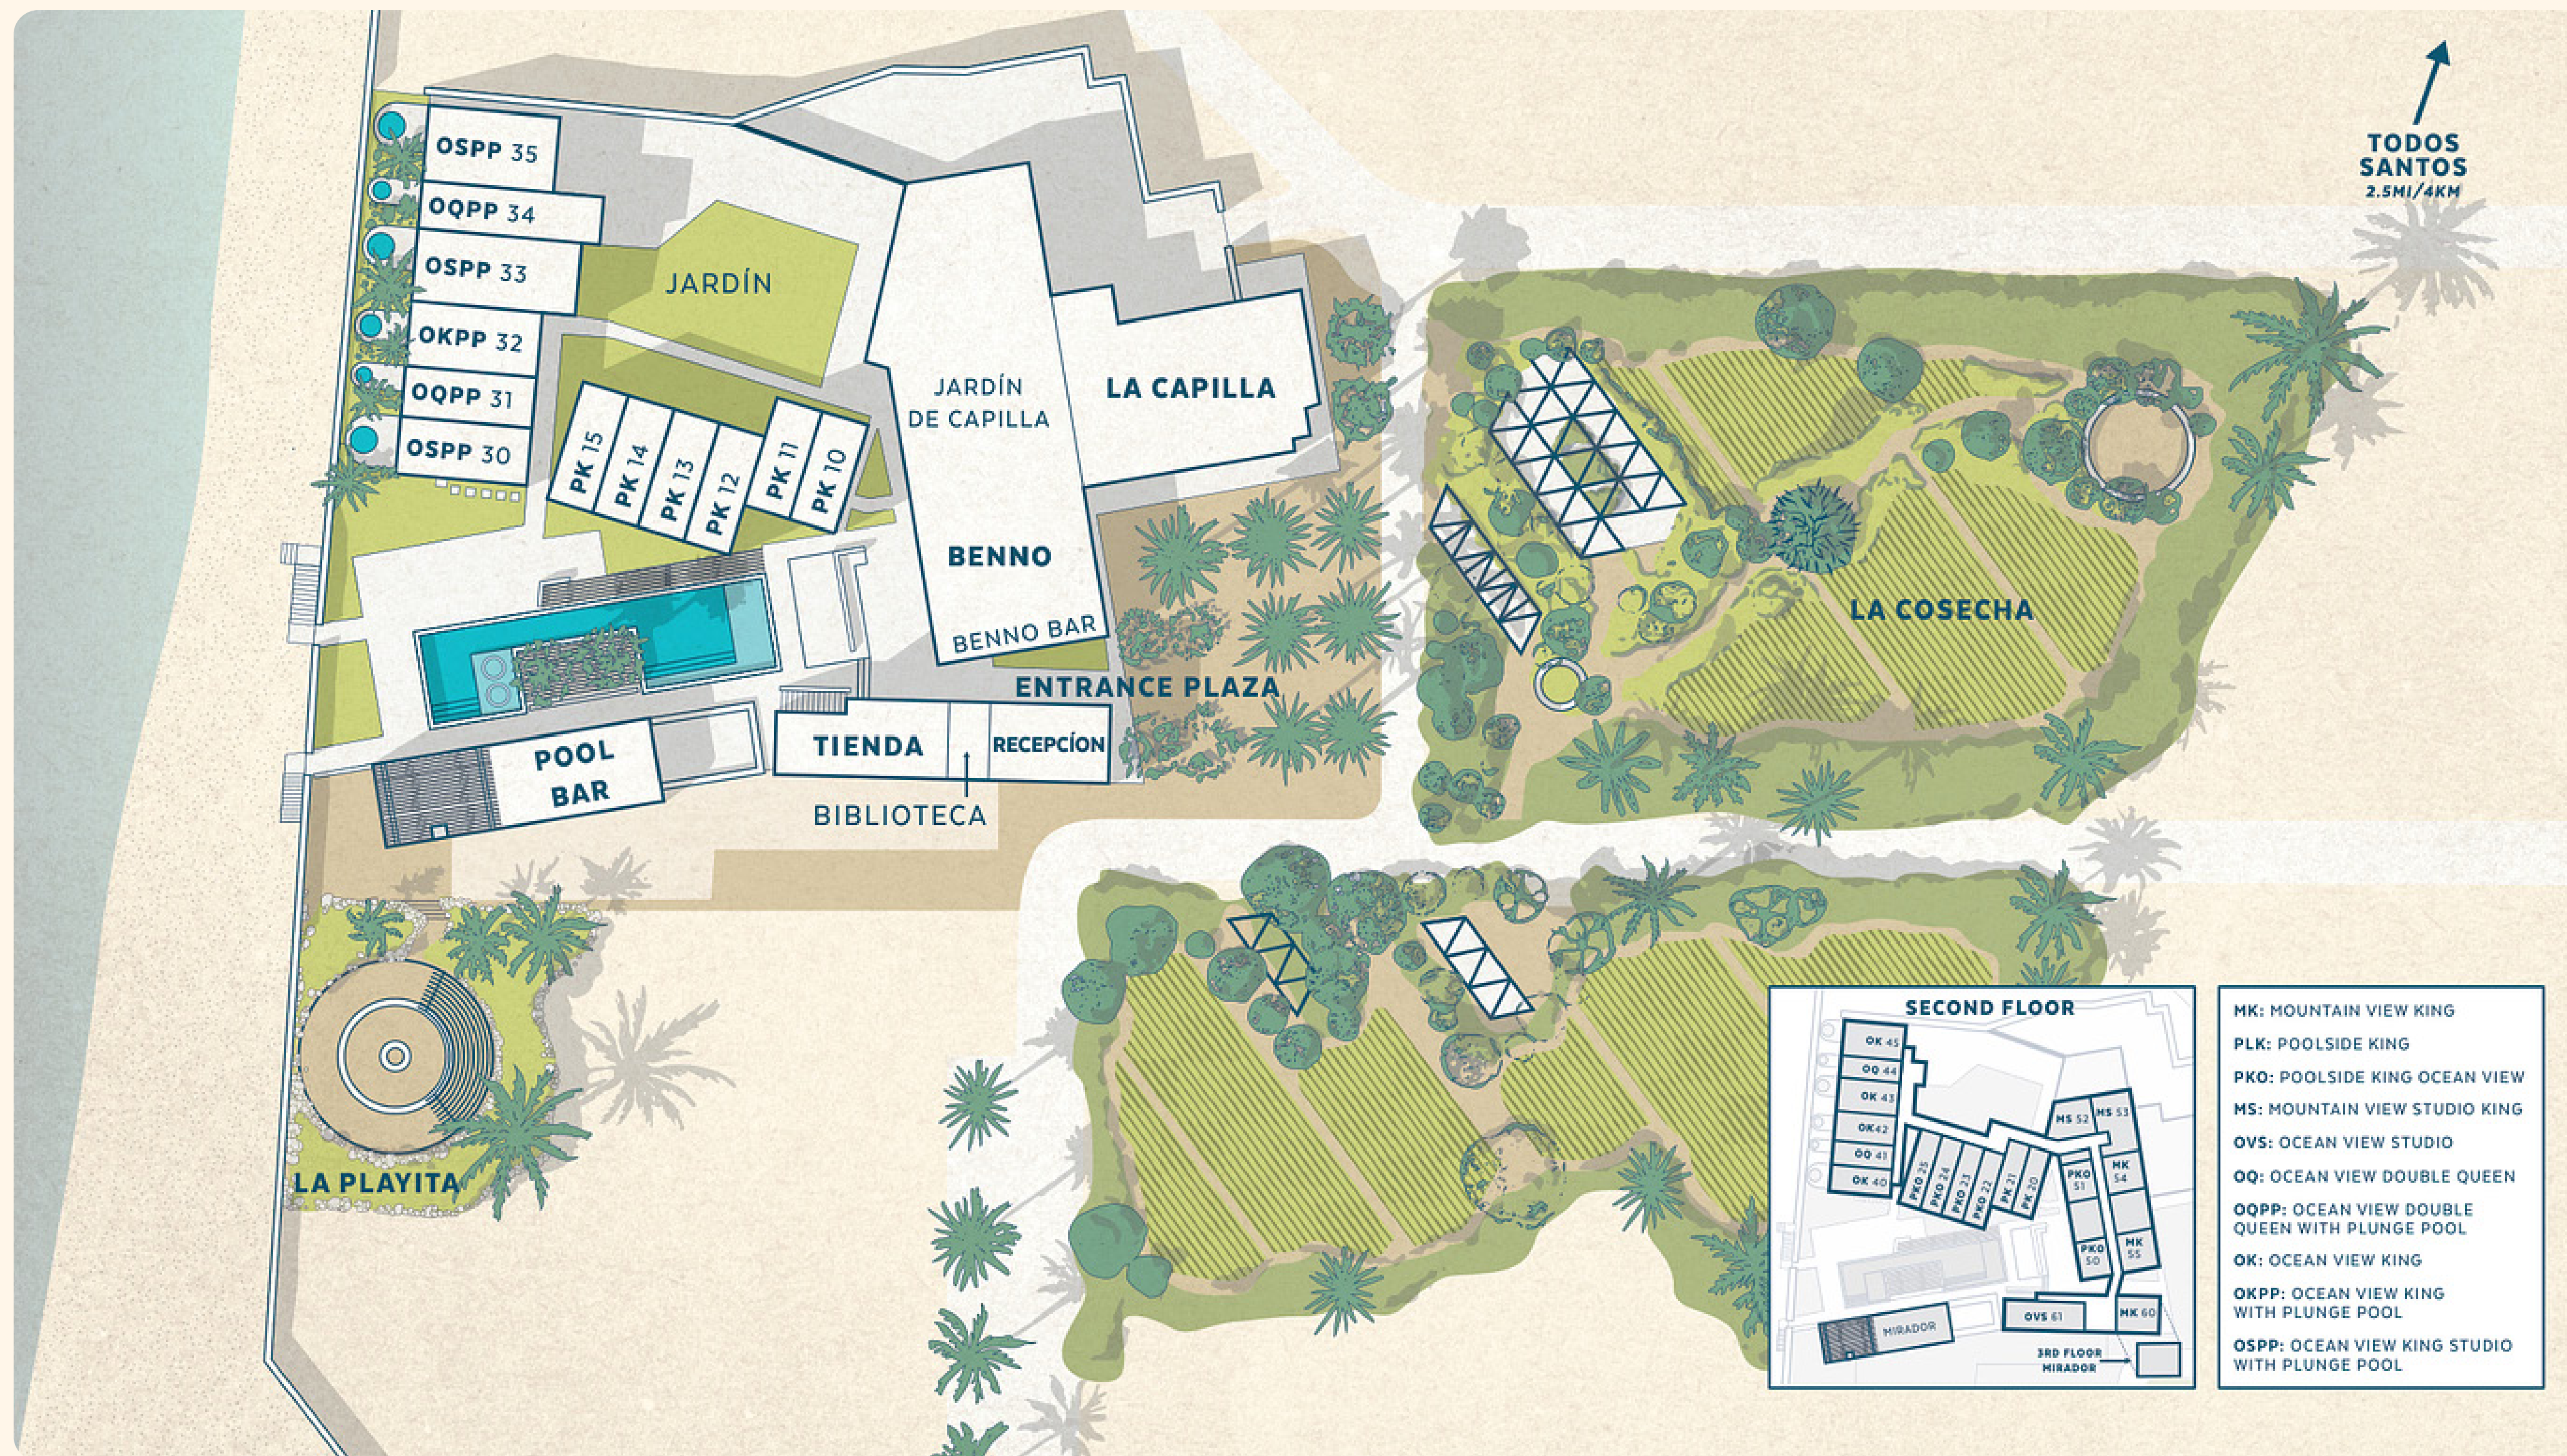

HOTEL SAN CRISTÓBAL

Named in honor of Saint Christopher, patron of travelers, surfers, sailors and protector during long journeys, Hotel San Cristóbal sits on the southwestern edge of the Baja peninsula. Positioned along the Tropic of Cancer and framed by the Sierra de la Laguna mountains, Punta Lobos, and the Pacific Ocean, there is something about the quality of light here. The cycles of the days and seasons, the sunrises, sunsets and tides, and the majesty of the night sky are the hotel's greatest amenities.

Hotel San Cristóbal consists of 32 rooms situated around a central pool and lounge, designed by architects Lake | Flato to complement the beauty of the surrounding terrain. The intimate property is home to three restaurants and beach club as well as a library, a seaside mirador, and a small retail shop. The hotel has several spaces for celebrations and weddings from La Capilla, the hotel's beautiful chapel and event hall, to a secluded yoga platform with a breathtaking view overlooking the mountains and ocean.

*Hotel San Cristóbal welcomes guests ages 15 and over.
Except with full property buyout.
